To the Editor of THE REPUBLICAN:
The detachment of the Second Artillery, now at Washington barracks, under the com-mand of Second Lieutenant E. M. Weaver, Jr., Second Artillery, who acted as body-guard from this mand of Second Lieutenant E. M. Weaver, Jr., Second Artillery, who acted as body-guard from this city to Cleycland, Ohio, publicly express who appreciation of the hospitable manner in which we were entertained by the Cleycland Grays while sojourning in their beautiful city. Words cannot express the admiration in which they are held by the detachment. Never have we met a more sociable organization than they are. We were the recipients of immunerable favors that are sciden known between regulars and militia. Everything was done to make our stay pleasant and agreeable. As citizen-soldiers representing Cleveland, they should be looked upon with pride, and as gentlemen they command the honor and respect of all who come is contact with them. We are also indebted to the citizens of Cleycland for their generous and affable qualifications. They will ever be gratefully remembered by those who had the honor of being members of the body guard who accompanied the remains of our late beloved President to its last resting-place, an occasion to be looked upon with reverence. THE CIRCUS PARADE.

Fentures of Coup's Hippodrome and Circus in Procession To-Day. The parade of W. C. Coup's great Paris hippodrome and three-ring circus, which has created so much excitement in all the large cities created so much excitement in all the large cities of the country, will take place this morning and pass through the principal streets of the city. In the procession will be many novelties and curious objects, among them being dens of lions, tigers, hyenas, &c.; elephants, camele, English and French race-horses, tale and female jeckey and hippodrome riders, Boman two and four horse racing-chariots, elegant wagons and cages, steam musicat-chariots, nine kinds of music, beautiful ladles, kuights in armor, rich and costly costumes imported from Paris, the Zoius, including the princess Amszulu, warriors, &c.; Indians, Japanese, comic heads, and many humorous and laughable features. The parade will start about ten e-lock in the morning and remain out nearly three hours. There will be two performances at the mammoth tent to-day, one in the afternoon at two o'clock and the other at night. A good circus always attracts a crowd, and Coup's name attached to a show is a guarantee of its excellence.

The Late Dr. Darc. Dr. John Dare, who died in this city on day, was a near blood kinsman of Wilkinson, the third general-in-chief of the American army, Washington being the first and American army, Washington being the first and Anthony Wayne the second. Dr. Darc's ancestors settled in Maryland at an early date, and were among the first in that colony in influence, ability and weath. Inheriting the abilities and character of his family, Dr. Darc early became distinguished as a physician and respected as a gentleman. In personal characteristics he won the love of all who came in contact with him. His predominant traits were a sense of justice and an active benevolence, the latter of which especially endeared him to his very large number of poor patients, whom he treated granultously with all the resources of his admirable skill and large medical experience. In private life Dr. Darc was modest, refined, and amiable, winning the love of his intimates with more than ordinary power. In the old ante-bellum days, when the exercise of hospitality was a cardinal virtue among Maryland genilemen, he was distinguished among them for his liberal and refined entertaining. He was the centre of a hest of friends, upon whom he exercised an influence remarkable allke for its refining indencing and its extensive score. His funeral tentro of a hest of friends, upon whom he exer-ised an influence remarkable alike for its refining endencies and its extensive scope. His funeral akes place to-day from St. Mark's Episconal Church, Capitol Hill. His widow—an estimable and accomplished lady—survives him.

The New Iron Works.

Fires were lighted this morning for the first time in the vapor-fuel furnace, recently erected under the supervision of Capitaln W. II. Brooks, by the Potomae Manufacturing Company, preparatory to the manufacture of iron by the new process. So splendidly did the furnace work that Capitaln Archer, who was present and expected some trouble at the start, telegraphed to Washington that the success achieved was far boyond his anticipations. Capitaln Brooks, who is an experienced engineer, says the furnace, which is to be followed immediately by a number of others, the castings for which are now being made by Mr. William S. Moore, is one of the beat in the United States. Capitaln Archer, in a conversation with the reporter, said the erection of other furnaces will be commenced immediately and continued unitial it the space in the building fionet of Wolfe street) is occupied. In about ten days he expects to have a double puddling fornace up. The manufacture of iron will commence next week.—Alexandria Gazette of yesterday. first time in the vapor-fuel furnace, recently

A Pleasant Wedding

Quite a brilliant wedding took place in Epiphany Church on Wednesday last. The con-tracting parties were Licutenant Albert G. Berry, tracting parties were Licutenant Albert G. Berry, of the United States navy, and Miss Lillian Merriman, daughter of Judge Merriman, of this city. The pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. Paret, performed the marriage ceremony according to the rules of the Episcopal service, and the organist rendered effect vely some appropriate pieces, including a wedding march. The ushers, four in number, who are licatenants in the mavy, were, as was the groom, dressed in the full parade uniform of the naval service. There were present about two hundred persons, members of our prominent families. The bride and groom left for the Northern cities on the afternoon train.

Pay of the Census Clerks. Great uneasiness prevails in the Census Office from the strong probability that the certificates of the employees for the month of September will not be cashed. This state of affairs was totally unexpected, and if it should neveral will cause a great deal of suffering. It is to be hoped that the arrangements for cashing these certificates will continue, both for the benefit of the eferts; and to prevent the sudden withdrawal of some 55,000 or 50,006 from the monthly circulation in business NEXT WREEDS ATTRACTIONS.

New Comie Opera, "Mascotte"-Hague's British Minstrels, The "Mascotte," Audran's comic opera, at the Opera-House next week. The Washington public are familiar with the fame of "Mascotte" and are anxious to hear it. The plot turns on the myth of Mascotte, or girl who brings good lick. Rocco, a farmer, roceives from his brother the young girl Bellina, who is a Mascotte, or hearth-angel, and upon her arrival at the house of Recee she brings him good fortune. He makes her his turkey-keeper, and the young shepherd Pippo immediately falls in love with her and she with him. The nature of the Receepts. and she with him. The nature of the Mascotte is herd Pippo immediately fails in love with her and she with him. The nature of the Mascette is peculiar. As soon as she is kissed a bridal kiss her gift of good luck deserts her, only to reappear in her children. Bocco, of course, desirea to keep his Mascette, but she is decidedly bent on marrying Pippo. The King chances to arrive at the home of Farmer Rocco, and discovers that he has a Mascette. He immediately takes possession of her; induces her to believe that she is a duchess and of an ancient line and carries her off. Pippo follows. The King then becomes as anxious to keep her from marrying as Rocco had been, and his difficulties in keeping his pages from making love to her are great. The King's daughter, Farmetta, falls in love with Pippo, and the King threatens to marry the Mascette to keep her from marrying anybody else.

The merit of the play is the opportunities that it gives for comedy. It overlows with in.

Hague's British operatic Minstrels, who will open at the National steat Monday, are playing in Baltimpter tiffs week at the Holliday Street Theater. They present a novelty in burnt-cork. Speaking of their performance the Gazette of that city says: "There was not an ounce of negro minstrelsy in the entire programme. No conundrums, nothing at all about "Way Down Upon de Suwanee Ribber, no Brudder Boues, nowity end-men'—in fact, no nothing whatever of the mast-dom mamont ayle of minstrels; Except for the burnt-cork and an occasional interfection of alleged Ethiopean in the report of concert: which is evident from the fact that the report of the first part was composed of "Exceistor," from Mariana: "I Will Be True to Thee," "I Fear No Foe," The Carrier Dove, "The Isle That's Crowned with Shamrock, "Oh, Hear the Wild Winds Blow," "The Blue Absalan Monntains," "The Warrior Bold," "Thy Face," and similar ballads. In part second there was some superh jig dancing, some novel musical instrumentation, temale impersonations, and banjo acts. But the ballads singing in the first part was cortainly superb. The v
